

January 2008

A SHARKING FIN-ISH TO JAMES' DEM MARATHON

After cooking up a whopping 48 Christmas demonstrations for Aga, James McIntosh went to extreme lengths (and depths) to get away from those mounds and mounds of turkeys. And you can't get much further than swimming with sharks in Australia, can you?

On his first trip down under, James managed to cram his new year celebrations with as fantastic a mix of ingredients as he piled into those festive birds.

Starting with the famous fireworks at Sydney Harbour, he then moved on to scuba diving and surfing on the Gold Coast, followed by close encounters with kangaroos and koalas, and sampling other people's cooking for a change at an extremely large number of barbecues.

"Hmmm, 30 minutes in the Roasting Oven on the 4th set of runners and 24 hours in the Simmering Oven might just do it..."

James will be back demonstrating in his own inimitable style - only with more of a tan - from 17th January. See www.whisk.biz/aga.htm for details of where you can catch him during the year.

Ends