

a fresh approach to home economics

Whisk Ltd is a Home Economics Consultancy specialising in consumer communication for the food and domestic appliance markets.

Since its inception in 2004, Whisk has seen rapid expansion and has a large portfolio of clients, from small producers to large FTSE 100 companies.

Due to recent acquisitions, Whisk is looking for freelance home economists for recipe development and food and domestic appliance demonstrations nationwide.

At Whisk, relating consumer needs to a client's product is key. Excellent food and verbal communication skills are required for ad hoc projects on a freelance basis. A degree or HND in Home Economics, Consumer Sciences or equivalent is necessary as well as relevant industry experience.

Due to current legislation, only those registered as Self Employed with the Inland Revenue, holding a valid Basic Food Hygiene certificate or above and valid public liability insurance need apply. Access to a car is preferable.

For further information about Whisk, please visit www.whisk.biz.

To register your interest in freelancing for Whisk, please send your current CV to info@whisk.biz